Notable Events of January 2014

January is a short report for the period of January 1 through January 29 due to a failure of Calls For Service not transferring within the SNOPAC system beginning January 30.

Additionally, type codes and their respective descriptions have been redefined for 2014. Accidents have been renamed the more appropriate term of collisions. These are directly comparable and will appear in the charts as collisions. The code for Vehicle Prowl has been eliminated and you will see zero values in the year 2014. Although thefts were down you may see an increase in future reports for thefts because the vast majority of previously coded vehicle prowls end up as thefts.

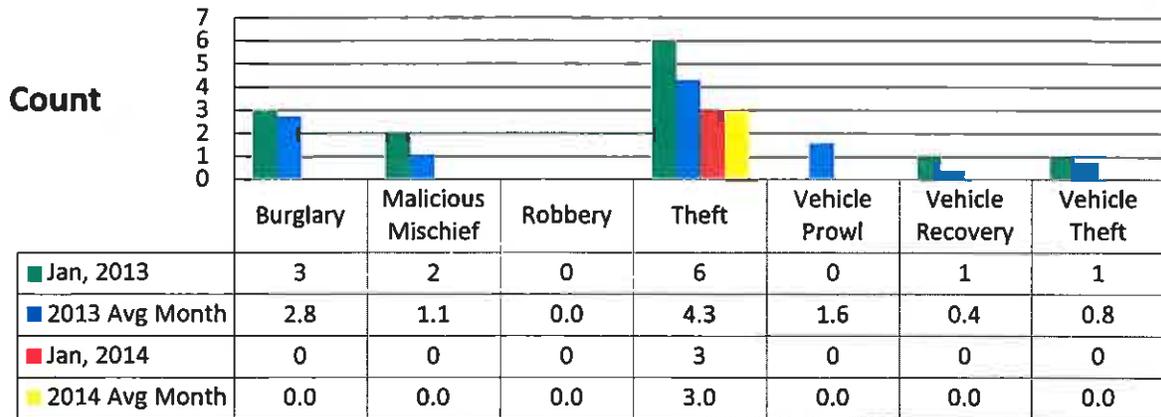

There are many other changes to the type codes: some old codes have been redistributed to two or more new codes and other old codes have been combined into a single new code. To eliminate confusion the large table has been removed from this report.

- Assist to Federal Law Enforcement: Snohomish County Sheriff's Office assisted a federal law enforcement agency this month when they contacted one of two subjects of their investigation and discovered that she buried the other under a wood shed in Gold Bar, after he died of natural causes, because she feared she would be caught for her crimes if she reported the death.
- Personnel changes: Deputy J. Cook has been temporarily assigned to manage the shooting range and equipment issue for the Sheriff's Office, relieving Deputy C. Payne who passed away last week. Deputy Ian Whipple has moved into Deputy Cook's shift. Deputy Rick Griner has moved from nights into Ian Whipple's former shift. Deputy Doug Saint-Denis comes to Gold Bar as a new deputy to our department, but a seasoned veteran police officer. Deputy Saint-Denis started his career in Nevada before moving to Washington and working for the Lynnwood Police Department for several years. He came to the Sheriff's Office in 2013. His resume and reputation in local law enforcement are outstanding.
- Heroin related arrest: A gold bar man from Timber Lane was arrested near Startup and booked into jail for possession of heroin with intent to deliver. His vehicle, paraphernalia and cash were also seized.
